

How to Save a Schoolhouse

Oldham Era, July 2, 2008

Residents of Westport are one step closer to saving a community schoolhouse after a fundraiser Saturday.

Organizer Kathy Hockersmith said residents raised more than $1,100 in donations, $500 from a pie auction and much more from a fish fry and yard sale. Organizer Glenn Watson said Westport's one-room schoolhouse is safe from demolition, but renovation still needs to be done to improve the building. The fundraiser will further that goal.

"We're hoping in two years to have a fish fry in the school."
